Unfortunately, the story did not say what program the wife was watching. In late afternoon, in Los Angeles, she might have been interested in Pinky Lee, a Western movie, Guiding Light, Secret Storm, Search for Tomorrow or even Bride and Groom.

At any rate, the incident points up a crying need for the sort of television set that can be installed in the kitchen. We envision a nice, white-enameled job that fits over the stove, or perhaps in the door of the refrigerator. Certainly something should be developed that would make it possible for ladies to watch TV and whomp up a good meal at the same time.

If not a good meal, at least a cheese sandwich.

To Kiss Or

A FRANK DISCUSSION OF A BURNING TV QUESTION

Television really hasn't been doing right by lovers. In the good old days of the movies, when Valentino went into one of his enthusiastic smooches, every gal in the theater past lipstick age watched with her shoes off, so she could wiggle her toes in ecstasy. Censors or not, Hollywood has always condoned kissing. On Broadway, players have always been permitted realistic clinches.

On TV, though, before a man kisses a girl (or vice versa), a conference is called. The producer, director and continuity acceptance (censorship) department discuss the matter thoroughly. A most unromantic prelude to passion.

As a rule, after lengthy mulling, it's decided not to have a kiss after all. The reasoning: not doing something is the best way to avoid offending.

Actually, there are no strict TV rules on this kissing business. To Kiss Or Not To Kiss has become, if you'll pardon the phraseology, a matter of taste.

Some time ago, a TV version of a stage comedy, "Reunion in Vienna," stressed kissing, lots and lots of it. This was bad enough, but during some of the bussing, the actors were just a bit too sincere. Everybody, hardened critics too, objected. So now there's an unwritten law: No prolonged kisses on TV.

Many actors have come to TV via Hollywood, where people don't kiss on the mouth. It's not supposed to look pretty. In the movies, the man, aiming carefully, lands his smacker on the woman's upper lip. No such nonsense for actors risen from the TV ranks, however. On TV, a kiss is a kiss.

Because of the rapid pace of live TV, actors don't have time to worry about such technicalities as smearing make-up (color TV may change all that). Nor do actors concern themselves with such rituals as who tilts whose head to which side. Hollywood, in recent years, has spoon-fed audiences the idea that the technique is the thing, but on TV the number-one question is whether people should or should not kiss in the first place.

On Studio One recently, a couple met after walking out on their respective spouses. It was kismet, or whatever operates at such moments, and they planned a mad whirl in Spain. But they never kissed. They never got off to Spain, either. You could see why that didn't happen, but why the ban on kissing? "Not proper," explained producer Felix Jackson. "They're married to other people and any such manifestations of affection might antagonize viewers."

Producer Fred Coe had a similar problem in a TV Playhouse drama about a couple and a weekend at Montauk. Naturally, they never got to Montauk. But they did kiss and they thought plenty about going. That was the whole point of the play. And at that hour, all kiddies were tucked away for the night. However, the protests rolled in as if Fred had attempted, single-handed, to corrupt the Nation's morals. "I tried to explain that in order to show good, you sometimes have to show evil first," Fred says. "The Bible does it all the time, but on TV, you can't win."

You sure can't. Fred also produces Mr. Peepers. It took Peepers, a methodical man, two full years to get up the nerve for a single kiss, and even then, it wasn't until after he gave Nancy her engagement ring. The day of the wedding, two sweet old dears in the studio audience were positively distraught. Their complaint: "They married too soon. Why, it was only a few weeks ago that they first kissed."

Scripts about married folk occasionally sneak in some smooching. But the kisses TV "husbands" and "wives" give each other will never do a thing to promote marriage. Positively antiseptic.

The source of all the trouble may be the fact that it's never been clearly defined when a TV couple may or may not kiss. Nor has the length of a TV kiss been formally limited, not even by the code of the National Association of Radio and TV Broadcasters. It would save considerable confusion if an okay TV kiss were arbitrarily limited to, say, one minute and 22 seconds.

Then Jack Eigen and Cleo Moore might never have engaged in that seven-minute kissing bout in Chicago, which managed to shock viewers who weren't even viewing at the time. Jack wouldn't have been fired and Cleo—well, she wouldn't have been so well off. The deed done, Cleo proceeded to New York, got kissed again (by George Jessel, not on TV and for only 2 minutes) with a fanfare of publicity.

Leaving the kissing problem to individual judgment has proved far from satisfactory. Herbert Carlborg, of CBS continuity acceptance, admits, "We don't want to be stuffy, but we're so gun-shy of what people will think, we blow the whistle on almost everything."

Aw, come on, fellows. It's getting ridiculous. There's even a rumor someone's insisting they shorten the kiss in the "kissing-sweet" chewing gum commercial.

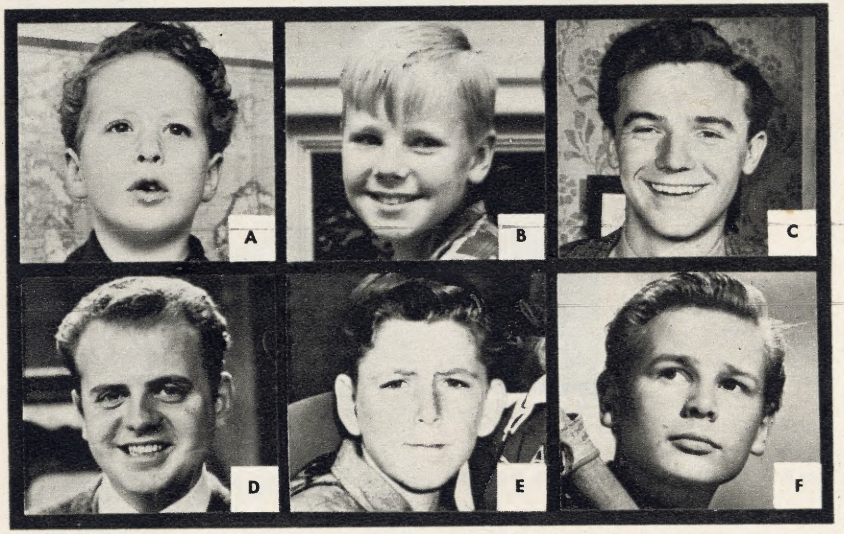
Actually, only the networks are stony-faced about this kissing business. The performers have a thoroughly marvelous time. Married people have to look married, lovers must appear friendly. And suppose two people rushed towards each other and missed? After all, there are no retakes on live TV.

Realism and good aim require rehearsal. So TV's girls and boys practice plenty. But most of these kisses never show up on camera. They'd be just too shocking for us poor innocents.—Kathy Pedell.

Telequiz:

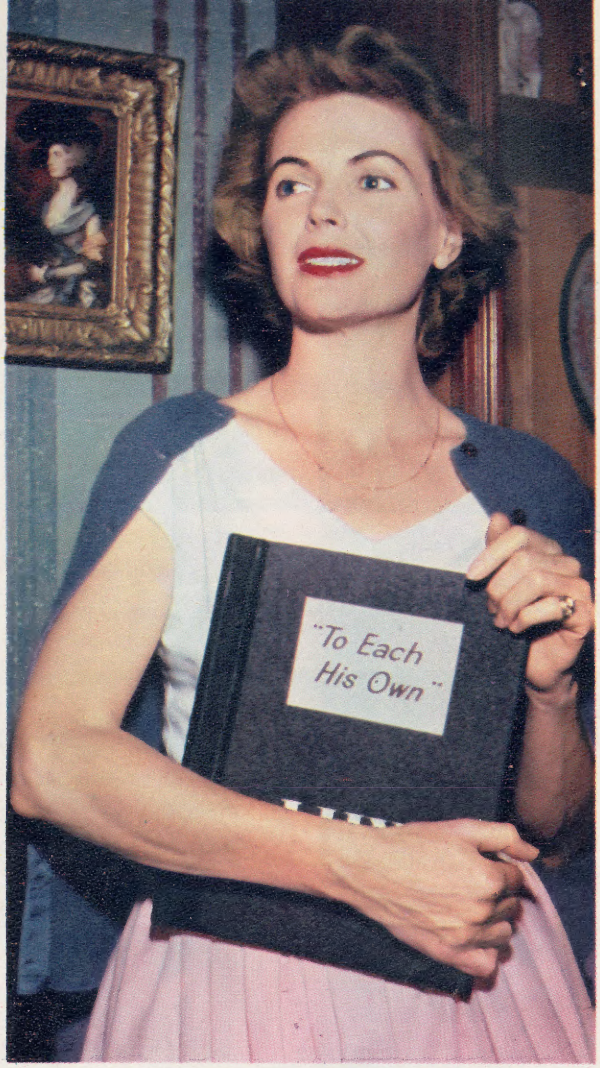
Brother & Sister Act

Make-believe brothers and sisters abound in TV's situation comedies. Can you link each girl, above, with a male member of her video family? Answers appear below.



Solution: Gail Davis (1) and Jimmy Hawkins (E) of Annie Oakley portray brother and sister, as da Arlene McQuade (2) and Tom Taylor (C) in The Goldbergs; Lugene Sanders (3) and Wesley Morgan (F) in The Life of Riley; Susan Strasberg (4) and Malcolm Brodrick (B) in The Marriage; Sherry Jackson (5) and Rusty Hamer (A) in Make Room for Daddy; Robin Morgan (6) and Dick Van Patten (D) in Mama.

Double Your Money's Worth



Dorothy McGuire: she approaches a new job with enthusiasm.

'LUX VIDEO THEATER' EXPANDS TO HOUR, SEEKS BRIGHTEST STARS

This week, on August 26, Lux Video Theater starts its fifth season on the air—a fairly routine statistic except for three points: (1) the show switches from CBS to NBC, (2) the format expands from 30 minutes to a full hour and (3) the stories will be based on motion pictures instead of on original TV scripts.

Lux Video, a babe-in-arms compared to its radio counterpart, will do a considerable amount of growing up this season and will approach at least the form, if not the stature, of "Lux Radio Theater." In expanding to an hour, it becomes the first regular hour-long dramatic show to originate from Hollywood. And like the 20-year-old radio show, it will adapt successful motion picture properties and cast them with the biggest star names available. In addition, so that no effort will be spared to make the ambitious program a success, Fred Coe, a top NBC dramatic producer, has been summoned from New York to serve as a consultant.

While every attempt will be made to get the original stars, the fact of the matter is that few if any of them will be available. For the opening show, for instance, Dorothy McGuire will play the Olivia de Havilland role in "To Each His Own," Miss de Havilland being in Europe and there being no trans-Atlantic microwave relay available. Miss McGuire, a solid star name in her own right, has approached the task with unmitigated enthusiasm, eager to prove that movie actresses with stage training can lick live TV at its own game.

The second show of the new season will be "Welcome Stranger," in which Bing Crosby will not be starred. The Barry Fitzgerald role will be played by J. M. Kerrigan, with the Crosby role not yet cast as this is written. Third Lux play will be "Christmas in July." All three shows, incidentally, are Paramount pictures, Paramount being the lone major studio to date to offer its full cooperation to Lux's Cornwell Jackson, executive producer.

Paramount also is loaning William Holden to serve as host on the first show, with the possibility of his being used in that capacity for the full season. What Paramount gets, of course, is a series of important plugs for its upcoming feature pictures. If the show is successful, the other major studios are expected to fall in line.

Biggest problem facing producer Jackson is finding enough supporting players in Hollywood who can go the hour-long route on live TV. The full hour dramatic show heretofore has been the peculiar forte of New York, home of the Broadway actor; Hollywood thus far hasn't come up with a single, lasting, live dramatic show of any length, save Lux.

NBC, in cooperation with Lux, is launching the new season with a rather ambitious Hollywood party, with invitations to all stars who have appeared on 20 or more "Lux Radio Theater" shows. The show dates back to Oct. 14, 1934, when Miriam Hopkins and John Boles co-starred in "Seventh Heaven," and the 20-or-more group includes Fred MacMurray, Barbara Stanwyck, Claudette Colbert, Brian Aherne, Don Ameche, Ann Baxter and Olivia de Havilland.

The top veteran of them all will not be able to attend, however: Loretta Young, with no less than 27 "Lux Radio Theater" appearances. Unfortunately for Lux's party, she is now being sponsored on TV by Tide.

William Holden: he'll be the host on first show of the new series.

Beany from the Back

Beany, Bob Clampett, Cecil: Bob planned well.

...AND WHAT MAKES SEASICK CECIL TICK

"Kukla, Fran & Ollie," explains Bob Clampett, creator of Time for Beany and an admirer of K,F&O's Burr Tillstrom, "is a puppet show—pure and simple—which uses television merely as a means of reaching its audience. Beany, on the other hand, uses television. It could be done only on TV. We use connected stages, not just one; painted backdrops whose illusion would be lost in a theater, camera tricks. Anyone who tries to compare the two shows has rocks in his head."

Dizzy Lou And Hey You.

Jack Webbfoot.

Moon Mad Tiger.

An award-winning favorite in Los Angeles, Time for Beany is now building a national following. Clampett, a youngish-looking man in his late thirties was a movie cartoon director and artist. He brought the show to TV almost six years ago.

Beany backstage, to the untrained eye, is a helter-skelter of organized confusion. Between stage and backdrops is four-by-six-foot space in which actors doing the voices of the characters must maneuver without barking shins or jamming an elbow into someone's mouth. Scripts are attached to a roller device, turned when a puppet manipulator gets a hand free.

"For the first five years," Clampett says, "two boys, Stan Freberg and Dawes Butler, did practically all the voices. When they finally decided to leave the show, a lot of potential sponsors were scared off because they thought these two boys could never be replaced. But we'd had other actors doing the voices, on the air, for weeks before Dawes and Stan publicly announced they were leaving. Nobody noticed the difference."

Beany now has a staff of six voice artists—each of whom can, and does, voice every character on the show at one time or another.

Clampett's forte, like Tillstrom's, is satire, which he tries to keep on a broad enough level to snare both the children and their elders. (A loyal viewer: Lionel Barrymore.) Clampett's more recent satirical characters have included Jack Webbfoot; the Connecticut Sea Serpent in King Arthur's Court (a take-off on Godfrey); the Double Feature Creature with the Wide Scream and the Scareophonic Sound; Marilyn Mongrel; Tearalong the Dotted Lion; Louie the Lone Shark; Dizzy Lou the Kangeroo (Desilu), Moon Mad Tiger, a mustachioed character voiced by Jerry Colonna, another fan. And there's always Cecil the Seasick Sea Serpent.

Wild imagination: creating Beany sets.

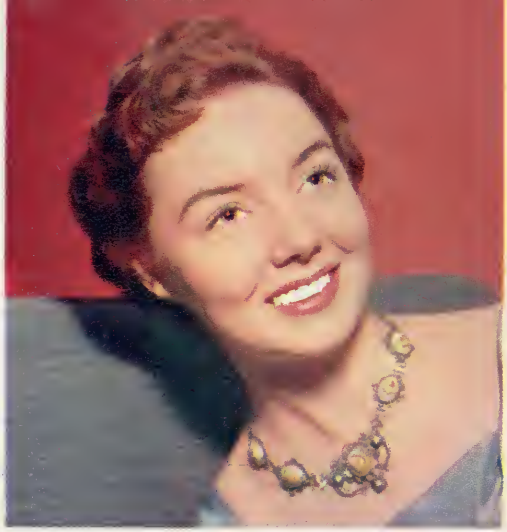
Smoke screen: Cecil will be even sicker.

Beany's and Cecil's 'voices' in action.



The Real McCay

SHE'S SOAP OPERA STAR, PANELIST, WRITER AND MORE

If life seems to dawdle along for you once in a while, take comfort from Peggy McCay and the soap opera in which she stars. Once, on Love of Life, Peggy dawdled off to the drugstore for something or other, and took six full months getting back.

Actually, while the story was racing(?) along, Peggy herself was leisurely touring Europe, a thing she always wanted to do. Turbulent storms may brew in soap opera, but the pace for the cast is placid—placid enough, in this case, to give Peggy time to study "real opera" and musical comedy singing; to write stories, play the piano, paint and ride.

As a relative newcomer to the TV screen (she's 24), Peggy feels she's "developing" as an actress. She began making the rounds of producers and agents two weeks after graduating from Barnard College while her native New York was in the midst of a heat wave. "I was about the only one around, so an agent sent me over to Kraft. It was more like 'Why not? Who else have I got to send?'"

On the basis of two Kraft Theater shows and one for Philco, Peggy was offered a chance to join a Margo Jones stock company. "But I was so naive, I wanted to be in her more-famous Texas group or nothing. Miss Jones had to talk me into taking the job." Later, Peggy did go to Texas as the ingenue lead and for one year played Shaw, Ibsen and Shakespeare.

Since then, Peggy has appeared on many TV dramatic shows. Being fast on her feet, she also wound up on the panel of Who's the Boss?—and, of course, on Love of Life, and that mad dash to the corner drugstore.

Chicago Dateline

TV's Week: Plenty of reason to rejoice at WGN-TV. The American Research Bureau just reported that two of Channel 9's local shows crashed the top ten in the ARB July ratings. Shows are Major League Baseball in fourth place and Jim Moran's Courtesy Theater in tenth place. It's particularly noteworthy because this is the first time in three years that local programs have hit ARB's top ten ratings.

Coons

Channel 2's three-time fashion show (emceed by Elinor Waldron and sponsored by Charles A. Stevens) marks the first time a State Street department store has sponsored a TV show since Marshall Field's ill-fated Pace.

Week's Highlights: WBBM-TV launches Junior Cameraman, a half hour of camera lessons for small fry, Saturday, at 1:30 P.M. Chuck Acree will emcee.

Advance Tips on Shows: They Stand Accused returns to WGN-TV Sept. 9 from 7 to 8 P.M. after a much-too-long absence. Also due for a return to Channel 9 soon is Down You Go.

CBS grabs another hunk of WNBQ talent in the person of Johnny Coons. Chubby Johnny starts a new CBS network series Sept. 4 at 12:30 P.M. But the show, similar to his current daily noontime series on Channel 5, will not be seen in Chicago because of his continuing WNBQ commitments.

WBBM-TV will carry a 15-minute discussion show Sept. 1 at 4:15 P.M. in connection with the American Medical Assn. which convenes here at that time.

WBKB prepping plans to originate the 7:30 to 8 P.M. segment of ABC's Let's Dance from New York's Aragon Ballroom starting Sept. 11.

Shows in the Works: It's rumored that WNBQ execs are searching for a vehicle to star winsome Bette Chapel after her successful summer stint on Close-Up.

Football prognosticator Norman Sper skedded for a series of football forecasts on WBBM-TV this fall, starting Oct. 2.

CHICAGO CHEFS OFFER COOLING

WHEW! The heat's really on! Blistering, sizzling, frying, searing heat as only the Midwest knows it.

That grinning fireball, old man Sun, has shown no sympathy this summer. Most piteous of the sufferers is the weary housewife! To her falls the wellnigh impossible task of combining the right foods for cool evening meals.

But, wait! In the interests of preserving housewives for next season, TV GUIDE has rifled the coffers of Chicago's television chefs for appropriate summer menus. Here they are, exclusive menus and main dish recipes from WNBQ's Francois Pope, WBKB's Clarice McWilliams and George Nichols, and WGN-TV's Alida Drake and John Zenker.

We hope they cool you off.

From Francois Pope:

Tomato juice
CAESAR SALAD
(may be made at the table)
Buttered asparagus Corn bread
Ice cream or sherbet Cookies
Iced tea

Caesar Salad:

1 lb. romaine lettuce
24 small croutons
2 cloves garlic, plus 1 t. salt
6 T. olive oil
2 T. wine vinegar
1 T. fresh lemon juice
1 T. Parmesan cheese
1 coddled egg
1/2 t. Worcestershire sauce
1 t. dry mustard
1/2 t. salt
1 t. black pepper
4 anchovy fillets cut in pieces

CROUTONS: Quarter 6 slices of 1/2-inch thick bread, saute in butter or olive oil, seasoned with 2 slivers garlic, until crisp and golden brown. May be prepared hours in advance.

CODDLED EGG: Place egg in small bowl of hot water for 5 min. or simmer gently for 1 1/2 min.

In large wooden salad bowl, crush garlic and salt with fork for about two min. (Discard garlic, if you wish.) Add olive oil and beat with fork until thick (about one min.). Add vinegar and lemon juice. Beat until well blended. Add Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard, salt, pepper, anchovies, cheese. Beat until well blended. Add chilled lettuce and toss well. Add coddled egg. Mix well. Add croutons last. Toss carefully and serve at once in small bowls. 4 to 6 portions.

A Strange Coincidence

I watch Mr. and Mrs. North on TV every week. The girl who plays opposite Richard Denning looks very much like Barbara Britton. Is it possible that she plays Mrs. North?—Mrs. Jane Smith, Zion, Ill. (Sure is. Barbara plays Mrs. North.—Ed.)

Now It's Wrestling Pin-ups!

I love to watch wrestling on TV, but they never show the faces of wrestlers clearly. Would you please tell me where I could write to get some pictures of all the wrestlers? — Mary Tocts, Racine, Wis. (Cameramen and directors apparently subscribe to the theory that close-ups of the grunt 'n groaners might frighten the viewers. However, if you're an indomitable muscle fan, try writing to the stations on which wrestling is seen.—Ed.)

Post Script

On What's My Line? July 25, there was a Mrs. Forest Burrite. I thought it might be interesting to note that she is about 73 or 74 and actually rode in the sulky races at Sportsman Park until last year. I understand that her daughter rides in them now.—Norma McCarthy, River Forest, Ill.

Liberace's Familiar Theme

I watch the Liberace program quite frequently. I would like to know the name of the theme song he plays at the beginning of his show. Also, where I could get a copy of it.—Red Murphy, Chicago, Ill. (Liberace combines two musical selections for his opening theme. One is Victor Herbert's "I Don't Care", the other is Chopin's "Waltz in C Sharp Minor (Op. 64, No. 2)." You can probably obtain copies of these selections at any music store.—Ed.)

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

The Miss America Pageant from Atlantic City Sept. 11 will be televised for the first time this year. ABC, which had PAUL WHITEMAN'S On the Boardwalk from Atlantic City this summer, plans to pick up 90 minutes of the beauty parade, with JOHN DALY emceeing. At least five cameras will bring viewers as much of the pageantry as possible.

First show on Climax, the new Thursday-night drama "spectaculars" on CBS, will be RAYMOND CHANDLER'S "The Long Good-bye" on Oct. 7. All-star cast is top-lined by DICK POWELL, TERESA WRIGHT, PAUL KELLY and JOHN LUND . . . POWELL'S six-year-old daughter, incidentally, makes her TV debut soon with her father on Four Star Playhouse.

EL BRENDEL, well-known movie comedian, joins the cast of I Married Joan as JOAN DAVIS' father. EZRA STONE has signed to direct at least four of the Joan telefilms . . . Who's the Boss has been canceled as of this week for lack of a sponsor. ABC plans to sub an unspecified film program.

TV industry still chuckling over Jack Paar's definition of a summer TV show on his recent Saturday night program. Jack called it a "winter show with the budget removed" . . . MARTHA WRIGHT returns Sept. 12 to her Sunday night spot now occupied by JANE PICKENS, who will appear on a local New York show which other stations can pick up.

First PADDY CHAYEFSKY play of the new season on TV Playhouse will be televised Sept. 19. It's titled "Catch My Boy on Tuesday," which makes it, of course, the story about a stage mother . . . The Great Gildersleeve has been turned down as a replacement for Original Amateur Hour. Looks now as though The Duke, PAUL GILBERT'S show now telecast Fridays on NBC, will get the nod.

Final word on Meet Mr. McNutley is that it will be titled simply the Ray Milland Show. But RAY'S name will be changed to "McNulty" on the show. He'll also transfer from his present all-girl school to a coed university and will become a drama professor, rather than a professor of English.

WHY STEVE ALLEN COULD USE THEM
... AND ABOUT SIX HANDS, TOO

To call Steve Allen a double-threat man is to be guilty of verbal deflation. Triple-threat, quadruple-threat, quintuple-threat—that's more like it. For Allen's a dynamo in shell-rimmed glasses.

He's a panel stalwart on What's My Line; the star of a critic-caressed late-night New York variety show NBC plans to give nightly coast-to-coast showcasing effective September 27; a writer of TV dramas; a composer of song hits; an aspiring novelist.

He's scheduled to perform in an unspecified number of Max Liebman's upcoming NBC "spectaculars," either as emcee or visiting comedy star. He recently turned down a bid to sub for the summer on Talent Scouts because of insistence that he retain the job if Arthur Godfrey doesn't return in the fall. No time, Steve decided.

Whatever scattered moments aren't already dedicated to his public, Steve owes to his brand-new wife—TV star Jayne Meadows. They were wed July 31 in a widely-publicized Pairing of Panels. Steve, as mentioned, is a weekly guesser on What's My Line; Jayne poses questions regularly on I've Got a Secret.

They have more in common than sedentary assignments on TV. They both act, for instance—co-starring last year in "Flamingo," a TV script Steve wrote for Danger; but, Steve hastens to point out, there's no conflict of interests.

"I'm a comedian and she's a serious dramatic actress, which means we complement each other." And, says Steve, a specialist on the subject (he's readying a book, "The Funny Men," on what makes comics comic), "Jayne has a fine sense of humor and every humorist, like me, needs an audience."

Just which member of this family will wind up playing audience is far from settled, according to at least one observer who recently shared an evening out with them. Allen seemingly prefers to let Jayne do most of the talking. Perhaps that's because most of her talk revolves about what a great guy and fine comedian her husband is. Coming from a press agent, such talk would be highly suspect. From Jayne, it sounds romantic.

Certainly this one-time journalism student at Drake University, who sometimes confides he yearns to make a full-time career of typewriter-tapping, is a different kind of performer.

Anybody meeting Allen socially for the first time would never consider him a comedian. Where the more brash TV comics are always on stage, always trying to out-shout each other. Steve is quiet-mannered, soft-spoken, relaxed. Any time he gives out with a quip, he laughs self-consciously, as though uncertain how folks will react.

Probably because of his spectacles and serious mien, Steve is generally tagged "a smart and sophisticated comedian." "But I don't want to be known as that," he says. "I'm never conscious of being careful of my grammar. And only a very small amount of my material is satirical."

People like to laugh at themselves, Steve feels, and "they'll laugh sooner if they're made a part of the joke." He recalls one night when two old ladies in his audience kept talking noisily to each other. "I think the heart of humor is something going wrong. So I slanted all my talk that night to the old ladies. I could have had an usher toss them out, but instead I made them part of the show."

Newlyweds: he prefers to let her do most of the talking, friends report.

Jayne cited another example of Steve's spur-of-the-moment humor:

At a hospital benefit featuring almost every comedian in show business, Allen was handed the unenviable chore of appearing last on the bill.

"As we drove out, I kept asking Steve what he planned to do. He kept saying, 'I don't know yet.' I grew more and more worried. But he was the hit of the evening, simply by basing his material on what was done by those who were on before him. Don Budge and Jinx Falkenburg hit tennis balls containing gift coupons out into the audience. So Steve showered the men in the orchestra with ping-pong balls."

Steve, only child of Belle Montrose and Billy Allen, a comedy vaudeville team, trouped with his parents while still an infant 32 years ago. He entered radio as a staff announcer at KOY, Phoenix, then joined CBS in Hollywood as a disc jockey. That network brought him to New York several years ago as a daytime TV star. The show was never successful, probably—Steve guesses—because his leisurely, relaxed humor is better attuned to late-night audiences. It wasn't until WNBT, NBC's New York station, gave him a pre-midnight show that he started to click on TV.

Steve and Jayne have known each other about two years. It was Jayne's sister, Audrey Meadows, a featured performer on The Jackie Gleason Show, who introduced them on a blind date. Because of Steve's customary shyness when meeting people for the first time, both he and Jayne recall that first date as "rather dull." But Steve later invited Jayne to "go to the moon" with him. That occurred when his three young sons (both Steve and Jayne have been married once before) visited New York and he decided to take them to the Hayden Planetarium. This trip to the moon led to trips in the moonlight. Now Audrey, who started the romance, is seeking a new roommate.

Jayne has appeared in a number of movies and Broadway plays, but now plans to devote all her time to Steve, his sons and TV.

Although NBC is seriously considering an idea for a TV program which Jayne concocted and Steve put down on paper, Mr. and Mrs. Allen have no plans to share a regular TV series —at this time. "It is possible, though," Steve adds gravely, "that we may do a show together some time during the next 20 years."

Smallest TV Station On Earth

AIR FORCE BEAMS PROGRAMS TO GIs DEEP IN MAINE WOODS

At Limestone Air Force Base, Maine, a heavy bomber roost just about as far northeast as you can go without leaving the continental U.S., the Air Force is operating an unusual TV station which may spark a GI "network."

Most TV stations boast of their size. AF-TV, Channel 8, stresses lack of it. The station claims it's unequivocally the smallest in the world. Consisting of a single miniature camera and a minimum of transmitting equipment, it was established last winter at a cost of $34,000, approximately one-tenth the amount needed for even the most modest commercial setup.

Toward even this low, low sum, derived from Air Force PX and theater profits, U.S. taxpayers contributed precisely nothing.

The idea of the "Tom Thumb" station was conceived by the Strategic Air Command's chief, Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, during a world-wide inspection tour, when he noted the sparseness of entertainment at relatively isolated installations.

Plans were stymied until Brigadier Gen. David Sarnoff, RCA's board chairman, was recruited. With the aid of RCA technicians and specially-designed equipment, General LeMay's specifications and on-the-air target date were met on Christmas Day, 1953. The station's first-day telecast featured a holiday drama, "The Littlest Angel," and several other programs.

Today AF-TV is on the air nine to 10 hours a day, offering—via kinescopes and films donated by all four networks, sponsors and film distributors—the Nation's top programs. Regular nights are assigned to specific shows. The Sunday timetable, for instance, has included such viewer favorites as I Love Lucy, Dragnet, Toast of the Town, Comedy Hour and TV Playhouse.

There are "live" programs, too—newscasts, sports and weather reports, safety hints, talks by the chaplain.

The beneficiaries of these telecasts are some 4,500 Air Force personnel and dependents, plus approximately 10,000 civilian workers and members of their families. The station's strength was deliberately limited to eight watts to keep programs within the base's boundaries, but there is some "seepage." On-post sets alone—in hospital rooms, dayrooms, service clubs and living quarters—total almost 1,000.

The Air Force points out that the station was established solely because no commercial transmitting facilities were anywhere nearby; for the same reason additional stations are being planned for bases in Labrador, Greenland, Puerto Rico and North Africa. According to Col. Bertram C. Harrison, commander of the Limestone-based 42d Bombardment Wing, AF-TV has already proved a tremendous morale booster, upping the reenlistment rate and paring the number of absences without leave.

The Limestone station is housed in a narrow area—roughly, 40 by 13 feet—inside a small, tarpaper "penthouse" atop a four-story, pink-and-white hospital building. Its half-dozen items of equipment are jammed together, side by side. Since there is just one three-turret vidicon camera, the screen goes blank whenever any camera movement is required—to display title slides, for instance, or to switch from live to film.

the Jack Paar Show

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

Jack Paar, the only comedian in all show business who makes a profession of being a summer replacement, is back in season again and so—back on the air. There is virtually nothing he can't do, and his presence lends stature to a summer season which, for the most part, needs it badly.

Paar is the emcee type of comic, and a good one. For extra measure, he is surrounded on this Saturday night outing by a permanent (for the summer, anyway) cast which in no way resembles somebody's amateur hour and can deliver professional entertainment in a professional way.

Outstanding among them are Betty Clooney (who is songstress Rosemary's sister) and Johnny Desmond—singers both; and Jose Melis, a gifted pianist who needs neither teeth nor candlesticks to draw attention to his prowess.

A team, these people do things together as well as go it alone. A standout on their initial show was a gentle ribbing of The Commercial. It was exceptionally funny, and their own sponsor, Prom, deserves a salute for allowing them to do it. Another example of good timing and teamwork was a roundup of choice TV boners.

Paar sets the pace for the entire show, which is about as easy-going as it is possible to get short of making with the snores. He plays for the chuckle, rather than the yock. His brand of humor is a good bit on the offbeat side, but it's catching. It's also something of a welcome relief from the standard scenery-smashers who fight for the viewer's attention during the regular season.

Someday, somewhere, Jack Paar will emerge from the summer ranks with a low-Fahrenheit Coast-to-Coast show of his own. Right now, he seems set for a long wintertime run as brand new emcee of CBS' Morning Show, which reaches many—but not all—TV viewers. Lucky people.—D.J.

Truth or Consequences

Fatalistic as it may sound, there probably will always be an audience for TV shows like Truth or Consequences. An audience participation program straight out of the frenetic, anything-goes category, this is one to which TV critics can always point as an example of how ridiculous the medium can get. But it does no harm to anybody except an occasional studio contestant.

T or C is the show that brought Ralph Edwards to fame on radio. Ralph produces this TV version, but he's devoting his on-screen activities now to This Is Your Life. Jack Bailey, former emcee on Place the Face, now runs the T or C contestants through their paces. And "run" is an understatement.

If memory serves correctly, T or C at one time was almost legitimate. Contestants were handed fair questions and if they could answer them, fine. Otherwise, they had to pay the fearsome consequences. Now the participants don't have a chance to answer questions because everybody is so anxious to get to the consequences. Sample question: How does a fisherman make a net? Answer: By tying a bunch of holes together.

And the consequences, which range from kicks to kisses, from the ridiculous to the more so? The less said about them, the better.—R.S.

FINE TUNING

By OLLIE CRAWFORD

Chiropractor sees new cause for worry in "TV Squat." This is a long-standing worry about sitting.

It seems youngsters have been sitting on the floor without letting their legs hang over.

Sitting Bull sat like that all his life, and he did better than Custer with his Last Stand. The average kid can sit any way, including folding his legs and sticking his feet in his pockets.

Pop got into worse positions as a kid, while reading "Tom Swift and his Electric Rifle."

It may be true that Junior spends so much time watching Hoppy that he's getting hippy. After all the hard riding on the cowboy shows, it's no wonder he's a little saddle sore. He solves this just by wearing his cowboy chaps the other way around.

This might hurt him if he sat still, but what kid does?

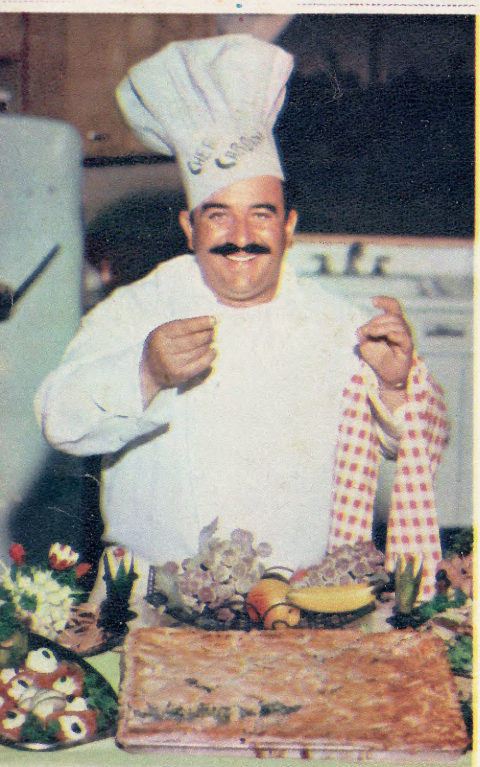
The average kid gets funnier shapes than an absent-minded pretzel-bender describing the "Charleston."

'Well, well, if it isn't Nick Savage, the TV private eye who always makes the cops look so stupid!'



Chef Cardini: he believes that the TV snack should fit the mood of the program the viewer is enjoying.

Meet California-born Chef Cardini. The corpulence of the Cardini frame offers substantial evidence of the rich goodness in the exotic dishes he prepares for Bay Area viewers on his hour-long Chef's Kitchen Show, Monday through Friday, over KGO-TV, San Francisco.

Cooking, to this mustachioed gourmet, is an adventure he tackles with gusto and "plenty of garlic."

Ask Chef Cardini to suggest a recipe for a TV snack, and immediately he wants to know during what type of program it is to be eaten. The good chef minces no words in letting you know the food must fit the mood. His Toscana Pie, a popular Italian dish, happens to be adaptable to all moods. It may be eaten cold or warm; as a main course or vegetable; or, as presented here, a delightful TV snack.

Toscana Pie

(Spinach-Cattage-Cheese Pie)

1 bunch chopped green anions; 2 T. olive oil; 4 T. butter; 1½ lbs. thinly chapped spinach; pinch aniseed; 4 chicken boullian cubes or 1 t. chicken base; ¼ t. salt; ¼ t. pepper; 4 heaping t. grated Parmesan cheese; 1 lb. cottage cheese; 4 eggs.

Speaking Of Local Programs

'The Vagabond'

There's poetry in the air over Florida's Gold Coast these days. It comes from Miami Station WTVJ and issues from the lips of The Vagabond, who is really Alan Keys (right), a former radio announcer and film actor. Alan gets himself tricked out in clothes and appears with sets that fit the moods of his poetry. The program is wildly successful, and much of the credit goes to director Rusty Bruton, who plans the elaborate production. All in all, it's quite a show.
